Motorhome explosion sends man to hospital, injures four children

by Tamara Collins

A weekend camping trip came to an early end in Didsbury when a motorhome ex ploded, leaving one man with first and second degree burns to almost 80 percent of his body, and four children with minor injuries

The explosion happened around 9:20 a.m. Sunday morning, when 57-year-old Robert Potter, from Calgary, was cooking breakfast for his four young guests. The explosion is believed to have been caused by propane.

Potter was camping at Rosebud Valley Campground, just off highway 582, and had just arrived the previous

"I heard the boom, but no one actually saw the explosion," said Flo Cunningham, Campground manager. looked and saw everyone running to help."

Potter was airlifted to the Foothills Hospital in Calgary, by STARS air ambulance.

"I stayed in my trailer and called 911," said Cunningham. "I was relaying what was going on.'

None of the burns on the rictims are believed to be life threatening

Some of the children, age 11, nine, eight and four, with Potter are believed to be related to him, and the others were friends.

The motorhome was destroyed in the blast, the windows were all blown out, the door flew from its hinges, and the roof was raised.

"All the campers helped out as much as they could," said Cunningham. "It was very hectic around here for a while."

According to RCMP Const. Patti Reid, investigators are still piecing together what happened, and exactly what caused the explosion.

Canada Post policy to benefit Didsbury customers

by Tamara Collins

Another benefit of a small town has recently come out into the open

McDonald, Didsbury, was concerned after a letter she mailed off at the Didsbury Post Office was returned to her. McDonald did not understand why the letter was returned, so decided to investigate.

The letter did not have box number, but it clearly stated it was to go to the Mountain View County Administration Building. along with the name of the receiver, the postal code, the town and province.

"There was just no reason it was sent back," said McDonald. "Everyone knows where the County building is, and the P.O. Box number was not in the phone book.

The Didsbury Post Office believed it was their policy to send mail back.

McDonald discovered, in a letter from Jeff Loesch, acting Area Manager, that this was not the policy, at a postal outlet. Loesch apolo-gized to McDonald, and sent her a pack of ten stamps to make up for the error.

"It is a confusing policy," said Loesch. "It is different postal outlet, such as Didsbury, than it is in a city, such as Red Deer. In a postal outlet, the policy is that if an item bears an incomplete address (for example, a wrong or missing are to refer to the appropri-ate list in the postal outlet to attempt to establish the correct address, then at-tempt delivery. In a city it would just get sent back to the sender."

THE DIDSBURY REVIEW

Loesch has contacted the Didsbury office, and the policy is now clear to all employees.

"It is always easier when the complete, correct address is marked," said Loesch. "That is the best way to guarantee fast delivery, especially in a place growing like Didsbury." Everyday Canada Post delivers an average 37 million letters. In 2003, 96.7% of the properly addressed mail was received on time. On time means a letter going within the metropolitan area should take no longer than two days, three days within the same province, and four days within the same coun-

Undeveloped roadway in a park

by Tamara Collins

After a lengthy discussion with a neighbouring resident, and comments from others af-fected, Monday night Town Council took in these opinions as information, to help them in their decision to pass By-law 04-12, to close 17th Ave., adjacent to Walter Place

At the July 12th Council meeting, Council passed the first reading of the by-law. This by-law's purpose is to also. by-law's purpose is to close and dispose of a portion of a public highway, in accordance with Section 22 of the Municipal Government Act.

"This road closure must be done through a by-law," said Robert Wigg, Town Planning and Development officer. "We presently have a road in a park and Council has a responsibility to change this."

Monday night local residents were given their chance to speak on the closure, and Anne Marie Day was the first to rise. Day's property is directly adjacent to the present road.

"When I purchased my house, I looked at the Town map, and it showed me that this portion was a road," said Day. "This was one of the reason's we choose this property."

Day was concerned because if that portion of 17th Ave. is closed, her family will lose access to part of their property.

What if one day we want to build a garage, or park a trailer back there," said Day. "That "That will no longer be an option for us. Closing that road will reduce our property value.'

Wigg responded saying that the road was never actually used for the purpose of a road. It is an undeveloped roadway, one of many throughout town.

Day suggested just leaving the road how it is.

"As it stands we have a park on a roadway," said Wigg. "We must either close the road, or close that portion of the park."

If the road is closed, the idea is to expand the park, although no definite decisions have vet

Richard Kope, Pastor of the Chinook Winds Church, spoke after Day, stating that he and the church were in favour of the road closure

The church is fully in support of the road closure," said Kope. "We believe it is in the best interest of the church."

After experiencing an excessive amount of vandalism, Kope wishes to put a fence up around the church to protect it.

Day took a few moments to discuss with her husband, and then approached Council again stating that they had changed their minds, and they would their minds, and they would support the road closure.

"I guess we will go with the majority," said Day. "We will support the closure."

Mayor Dorothy Moore thanked Day, and said it will help make Council's decision

A letter will now be sent to the Minister of Transportation, and upon approval from them, council will be able to pass the next two readings.

Tornado touches down in Sundre

by Nicole Phillips

Many farmers are slowly working their way out of a drought that has afflicted Alberta over the last five years, while others are deal-years, while others are dealing with the BSE crisis.

Sundre farmer Alvin Johnston had one more thing to deal with when a tornado swept through his proporty couring lets of property, causing lots of Alvin discovered a chunk of a metal roof laying in a pasture Thursday night af-ter what he and his wife, Dot, assumed to be a strong wind and rain storm.

He then discovered that a suspected tornado had de-molished a large shed, 24-feet by 48-feet, housing some of his farm equipment.

The three-year-old roof was flung in three pieces, furthest landing about 200 feet from the site where the shed was.

But Alvin and his wife Dot feel lucky because of the close proximity their home was to the shed, a distance of less than 150 feet away.

'I think it had to be a tornado. A strong wind wouldn't have picked the roof off like that and thrown it that far," Alvin said. The roof wasn't the only damage done to the machine shed. Posts dug three feet into the ground were pulled out and strewn into the yard, leaving a few lone pieces propped up on the equipment.

The roof was fairly new put on only three years prior. "I thought it would be good for a lifetime, but I guess it was only good until the first tornado."

Dozens of large trees were uprooted or snapped like twigs, showing the line that the possible tornado made as it ripped through. A hay bale was also moved several metres by the wind.

Alvin has been a resident of Sundre since 1942, and remembered only one other time a tornado struck this close to home.

Now all he sees is the hours of work ahead of him as he tries to repair the fences where the roof landed, the branches scattered in his hay field, and the new shed for the equip-

"I've got a lot of work now that I didn't want," he said, and isn't sure how much time it will take to clean up the mess.

But he and Dot feel very lucky that the tornado didn't hurt them or their Greta Botham was also affected by the weather. Her greenhouse was picked up and dropped by Thursday's storm, leaving many squished plants and a big mess to clean up.

"We saw the edge of the clouds coming in fast. They were going in the opposite direction that the wind on the ground was moving, she said.

Her home is northwest of Sundre. Botham said she's lucky because the green house was about 100 feet from before, but neither her home nor any vehicles were hurt by flying objects or the weather.

It's been quite a summer for severe weather in the province, with tornado warnings emerging almost every week.

Mae and Denny Bateman have lived in Sundre and Rocky Mountain House for the last 20 years, and can't remember ever having a summer with this many watches and extreme weather.

Some people speculate that El Nino could be re-sponsible for the extreme weather this year. High humidity in the air and hot temperatures make great breeding grounds for severe thunderstorms and torna-does, something which seems to have become a regular part of life for Albertans this summer.

OPINIONS DITORIAL

Stray Cats

TAMARA COLLINS

At the last Town Council meeting, a letter was read by a local women about the stray cat problem in Didsbury.

I myself have noticed a large number of cats running free in the area, but disagree that a bylaw is solution

If you visit the Humane Society in Calgary, one thing you will notice is that it has no shortage of animals. In fact, it is always very full. If these animals are not adopted, they will eventually be put down. This is a sad reality, yet it is still a reality.

When I am out running, I see many cats. Who can tell for sure if they are stray, many people let their cats out to play, and it makes my run that much more interesting. I like to watch them out playing, catching mice, and checking things

To me, these cats are very happy, and there is no shortage of food in the area.

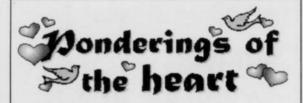

I believe these cats are far better off in the world they live in now, than to be caged up, and possibly put down. Think of all the farm cats out there, these cats technically have homes, they are just outside.

If you are concerned about these cats surviving in the winter, I can assure you, they will have no trouble in this area, finding a warm place to take shelter.

Sometimes these situations are not ideal, but I believe they are better off in the wild, than not alive at all.

"Are you being honest?"

by Margaret Fradley

Recently, I met a friend, whom I had not seen for a time, and asked her how she was, her response was "I feel a little cranky this morning, it was such a delight to me, now, don't get me wrong I was not happy that to me, now, don't get me wrong I was not happy that she felt 'a little out of sorts' but it was so refreshing from the usual "Just fine".

We were able to discuss that sometimes we wake up and, for some reason we don't even understand, just don't feel up to par, but when we get up and at it, it seems to wear off. My friend said the same she said "I working through it."

Just what do we understand when someone asks us "How we are" or just what are we expecting when we ask someone else how they are? Are we satisfied with the traditional "Fine?" or would we too find it refreshing if someone were to answer in all honesty. I once asked someone how they were and they asked how much That was also an eye opener. When I ask, am I available? Am I really concerned about their welfare? I get somewhat sad at the flippant question thrown out "How are You?" Ponder that for a moment if you will.

Alberta responds to Auditor General's BSE recommendations

The Alberta government has agreed in principle with recommendations by the province's Auditor General on BSE-related assistance programs, said Shirley McClellan, Deputy Premier and Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development.
"We appreciate that the Auditor General fast-tracked his review of our programs and offered recommendations. We will ensure that all the rec-ommendations are fully assessed and appropriate action taken," said McClellan. "In fact, through our partnership with industry, we've recog-nized - and are already working on - many of these recom-mendations."

McClellan added that future actions must support Alberta's cattle and beef producers and allow them to adjust and respond to new market realities and opportunities resulting from the BSE situation. "Our livestock industry and our Alberta economy depend on it," she said. On March McClellan asked the Auditor General to complete his intended review of BSE programs on a timelier basis. The report, released today, recommends that the province's agriculture department:

complete a risk assess ment that analyses the probability and impact of major risks to Alberta's agriculture industry define measurable targets for its emergency financial assistance programs;

improve its external accountability reporting;

work with government and industry to develop and implement contingency plan-ning to resolve critical shortterm issues; and, work with governments and industry to ensure it meets Canada's BSE testing quota.

The most important concluon in the report is that our BSE programs worked as intended," said McClellan. "More than $400-million in BSE funds moved 1.2 million cattle through the system and pro-vided valuable cash flow to an industry that had never experienced such a catastrophic event in its 200-year history."

As the 15-month anniver-sary of the discovery of BSE in Alberta approaches, McClellan said the province continues its resolve to work with govern-ments and industry to recover lost markets and build new I'm confident that by working together, Alberta's produc-ers, who have tackled the worst crisis their industry has experienced, will weather the storm and emerge stronger than they were before," she said.

In case of a hockey strike, break glass!

Dear Editor.

With both the NHL Players Association and League Administration equally tenacious when it comes to their opinions on salary cap implementation, it is becoming clear that there won't be any hockey this coming season - much to the chagrin of fans everywhere. And while many maintain hope bevond hope that an agreement can be hammered out between the two stalwart foes

However, as much as bemoaned Flames, Leafs or Canucks fans would like you to believe that the realm of sports itself is on the brink of demise this summer, all hope is not lost. Even in this hockey-centric nation, there are more than enough athletic feats to keep you entertained while NHL players try to convince us that 4th line forwards really do deserve $3 million a year.

Canada Men's Soccer

It's incredible what a couple of wins will do for you. In the open-ing two World Cup qualifying games this year, Canada outscored Belize 8-0, maintained pos of the ball for over 70% of the time and saw its roster balloon with the most European and American premier league-experienced Canucks ever to represent this country. All of a sudden, Canada has jumped five spots in the FIFA rankings, FIFA Magazine is pointthem as the new CONCACAF beast, and Central American coaches are saying that they dread their semi-final qualifying matches against the great white north.

The Canadians aren't just an enthusiastic and polite group anymore; they've gone from a de-pleted roster to a seemingly limitless one, chalk full with experienced professionals led by exciting frontman Tomasz Radzinski. With every game that passes, it becomes more obvious that Canada looks to become offensively what Greece was defensively. And, with semi-final matches scheduled all throughout August and September, there will be plenty of opportunities for you to watch their dynamite strikers in action.

"With two very good results under our belt," Canadian coach Frank Yallop said earlier after his side's second victory against Belize, "we are now looking forward to the next step."

So are we, coach

This isn't the boring, 6,000 fans-per-game football league your father sighs over when reminiscing about the good old days. Over the past few years, the CFL has experienced one of the most dramatic renaissance in the history of professional sports. Under the careful corporate massaging and marketing mastery of Commissioner Tom Wright, the league has become faster, sleeker, and infinitely more exciting – a fact which an average of 19,982 fans per game can attest to. All you have to do is watch a game like the first shooting match between the Lions and Eskimos this season to remember what it was like when football was played the way it was meant to

Minor League Hockey

From the quiet suburban streets of Oakville, Ontario where the Blades mark up the ice, to the secluded streets of Dawson Creek B.C. where the Sexsmith Vipers terrorize the competition, virtually every town in Canada has a Jun-ior A or B hockey team – includ-ing yours. Don't think of settling in for a minor hockey game as simply supporting a well-deserved group of youngsters; think of it an opportunity to watch the NHL stars of tomorrow playing like they've never heard of the League or salary arbitration or endorsements before, putting every last ounce of their hearts and souls into the rink for no other reason than their sheer love of the game. A refreshing change for hockey fans, I know.

The Olympics

Felicien Perdita in the 100m hurdles, gliding over the posts so fast you can barely see her feet. Keith Morgan in Middleweight Judo, making a dry, painfully practical grappling martial art look graceful and elegant in its forcefulness. Daniel Nestor and Frederic Niemeyer in doubles tennis, crossing the chasm between French and English Canada and crushing the opposition with unparalleled on-court communication and vicious forehands. Take it from a die-hard hockey fan watching an unknown from small town Canada hold the flag high above their head and compete against the best athletes in the world this summer will be more exciting than any Saturday night NHL romp.

More break & enters by city dwellers

By Shawne Mohl

After two Calgary men were charged in relation to numerous break and enters (B&E's) within Mountain View County (MVC) two weeks ago in both Carstairs and the Town of Olds, area RCMP have confirmed that the crimes are being committed more now by outsiders than ever before.

However, with more crimes being committed by city folk, Didsbury RCMP Cpl. Conal Archer says it's nearly impossible to stop these outsiders from coming into the smaller communi-So, Archer warns local businesses to make their businesses brighter and harder to get into. Archer says that just because we are in a small, ru-ral town Alberta residents and business owners need to remember their close prox-imity to the large urban centres - like Calgary and Red

"The reality is we live 45 minutes from Calgary - that is reality," Archer said. "The reality is there is nothing you can do, really, to prevent criminals from large entres coming out to large centres coming out to small towns."

These comments stem afrhese comments stem ar-ter two Calgarians in their early 20's were arrested by Olds RCMP, who are also being charged for break-and-enters in the Town of Carstair

Carstairs.
Todd Jordan Hipkin, 22, and Ryan Robert Latreille, 23, who had just been released on bail from Calgary were arrested in Olds on July 16 and have been charged with three break-and-enters in Carstairs and two in the Town of Olds.

two in the Town of Olds.

Olds RCMP Cpl. Jeff Mercier who has been in Olds for nearly two years now, but was posted in Olds about a decade ago, says that he has seen more outsiders coming in to commit crimes in the past couple of years than ever before.
"I haven't noticed more break-and-enters, but what I have noticed is the break-and-enters are now being caused more by city dwellers. I think the break-andenters are pretty much on par as before, just who is committing the crime has changed."

Archer says that his officers try to be out on the streets as much as they can to try to have a good pres-ence, but admits that it's nearly impossible to put together an operational plan to prevent city culprits coming to small town rural Aland committing crimes

"As far as setting up a specific operational plan to pre-vent bad guys from coming here to do B&E's we haven't done that and haven't even thought about doing something like that because it's not even reality, really,"

Archer added.
Mercier says that the policy at his detachment in Olds is that officers must be out on the street doing patrols if there is no paper work to be done.

"We have a policy here in the office that says, get out on the road. Visibility is a big thing and we try to be out there as much as possi-

Despite most police detachments, including Didsbury, complaining about the lack of officers, Mercier says that Olds has enough staff.

I think we have an adequate sized detachment. I think if we had any more of us here we would be tripping over one another, Mercier said.

Archer, however, works with a smaller detachment, yet has an extensive coverage area.

The Didsbury RCMP are responsible for patrolling the Towns of Didsbury and Carstairs, the Archer says that despite the numbers being up as far as crime goes, he is proud to report that the success rate of the Didsbury

RCMP has also grown.

"We are busier than we used to be. We have more prisoners...and more cases open, but we certainly are solving quite a bit of crime here - we are pleased with our success rate," Archer Mercier says that the RCMP do have intelligence and they work closely with the two major city police forces, which would help if there was information leaked about possible break ins that were going to occur in the small towns along highway 2. "There is intelligence gathering. We receive information from outsiders then we put an opera-tional plan together," Mercier

RCMP urge residents and business owners to contact the police if they see any suspicious activity in their communities.

County says: 'No conflict of interest' in selected realtor

By Shawne Mohl

A Sundre based real estate company which employs a Mountain View County (MVC) councillor has been hired on as the official real estate agent for the local municipality, but County offi-cials stand by their word that there is no conflict of inter-

The County's Commis-sioner Harold Johnsrude says that back in April county council directed his administration to hire a real estate agent to sell municipal land, as their way of doing business wasn't successful.

'We have got some parcels of land out there that we have sold over the last five years or so. Selling municipal land isn't new," Johnsrude

But, now council has done some review over last six months and...they decided to sell about five dif-ferent quarters. In the past we have tried to sell them on our own and we have just tried to use all the realtors in the area, but try to not get into multiple listing, but that just doesn't work that well."

Johnsrude says that the County opened up, 'Request for Proposals,' for all real es-tate companies within MVC, and the company which was selected he felt will serve the needs of the County the best.

The company hired to be the agent for MVC to try to sell municipal land is, Trails West Reality, based in Sundre, who also happens to be the employer of Sundre area County Councillor Linda

Yes, the realtor that got the opportunity to sell on our behalf is a realtor in Sundre, which Councillor (Linda) Burrell is an agent for, Johnsrude confirmed.

Johnsrude says that there could be a potential for a, "con-flict of interest," before signing the papers with Trails West Reality, there was an agreement signed to prevent the conflict.

"Before we agreed to go with them as a realtor they provided us with a letter saying that Coun-cillor Burrell would not be involved in any of the transactions,'

Johnsrude didn't question that there would be some eyebrows raised when Trails West Reality was hired, but Johnsrude believes they were the best company to get the job done.

"There were probably some questions raised, but I first of all selected a realtor I felt would pro-vide the best service to the County and we had our criteria that each realtor had to meet and as soon as I discovered I would end up making a decision involving a real estate company that has a Councillor as an employee there are certain things that I needed to make sure were in place so there was no conflict of interest,"

Thunder on the Prairies

A picture from Thunder in the Valley, which takes place in the Crowsnest Pass.

The Didsbury Ag Society has decided to take the plunge, and this year a firework display will light up the sky Friday night of the Rodeo weekend.

work display will light up the sky Friday night of the Rodeo weekend.

"This is very exciting for us," said Connie Conley, of the Didsbury Ag Society.
"This is our first time doing fireworks, and it should be a spectacular show."

The Rodeo weekend is August 20th to 22nd, and the Thunder on the Prairies will take place on the 20th at approximately 10 p.m.

"The idea came to us after reading your editorial in the Review a few weeks back," said Conley. "We believe this is something that really has the ability to grow, and attract people from all over, that is if the attendance is good this year."

To help make this show possible, glow rings, and Thunder on the Prairies t-shirts will be sold at the Rodeo grounds. Before the fireworks go off, a count-down will commence, and everyone will be asked to throw their glow rings in the air, to light up the sky.

throw their glow rings in the air, to light up the sky.

"I was at Thunder in the Valley in the Crowsnest Pass last month, and it looked incredible when everyone threw their glow rings into the air," said Matt Karlowsky, Didsbury resident. "It really did light up the sky."

These glow rings will sell for $2 each, and they can easily be put together to create an even bigger and better glow ring.

easily be put together to create an even bigger and better glow ring.

"This event will be very exciting for children," said Conley. "We are really trying to focus on the children Friday night, they are even welcome at the dance."

Other events taking place

Other events taking place Friday night for the children are an astro-jump, a kids train ride, a tire swing, and plenty of games and activities. The kid's section will be moved from last year, to closer to the stands.

"Last year it was quite far away, so many parents did not feel comfortable letting their children go that far to play," said Conley. "This year we have it nice and close to the bleachers, so the parents will not have to worry"

Both Friday and Saturday night the band Livestock will be playing. A dance will also take place both nights. Friday night you get free entry to the dance with the Rodgo entry fee.

the Rodeo entry fee.

If you know ahead of time you will be attending the Rodeo, you can buy your passes in advance for a cheaper price. At the Rodeo admission will be $10 for an adult, $5 for a child between seven and twelve, or $30 for a family of two adults and two children, and $2 per additional child. In advance you can purchase a pass, $8 for an adult, $4 children, $24 for a family of two adults and two children, and $2 per addition child. A third option you have, if you know you will be attending both days, is a two day pass. These are for sale in advance for $15 per adult, $7 per child, $45 for a family, and $2 per additional child. The advance passes can be purchased at the Ag Society office, or at Checker Auto Parts.

"These advance passes are a great way to save money," said Conley

Conley.

The exciting events continue throughout the weekend including a pancake breakfast, a parade, wild cow races, mini chuck races, Country Critters Dog Show, and much more.

"The local 4-H Outlaws will be doing the grand entry on their horses," said Conley. "And Rheanna Welland of Carstairs will be singing the national anthem. It is a weekend you will not want to miss."

Our Sons of Norway Lodge did its annual Hi Way Cleanup last week. We are responsible for both sides of a three kilometre stretch of 2A south of Olds.

Weather wise conditions were very good. It was cool but not too cold, a bit overcast so that we didn't sunburn and the few drops of rain were not enough to be a problem. We were in the ditch soon after nine o'clock and with four crews and a roving co-ordinator we were finished in good time and ready for an excellent lunch at Barb and Mel Olsen's house in Olds. A Sons of Norway event is never short of food and this one was no exception, besides BBQ smokies and weenies there were great salads, sauerkraut with franks and caraway seed, breads, pies, cakes, cookies, fresh fruit, assorted drinks and coffee. Our trek along the busy Hi Way was well rewarded.

As in previous years we wore orange vests and carried huge orange garbage bags provided by Alberta Transportation. We brought our own gloves and stabbing sticks and we wore boots and long pants. Because of all the lovely rain the grass was longer than usual and walking was a bit more difficult. The same long grass may have made us miss a few things that we didn't see, but we did our best to clean up our piece of Alberta's Highways and we were able to feel good about our morning's work

This year's collection was not terribly impressive, some one must be picking up the pop and beer cans on a regular basis because we only found a few and several of these had been through the mower that cuts the grass at the edge of the road. I don't know what the policy is on refunds for shredded beer cans but any that were still recognizable went into a separate bag. There was lots of fast food packaging and while every take out establishment in Olds was represented we decided that Tim Horton's Coffee is the drink of choice for people who litter. Most surprising was a cup from Peter's Drive In in Calgary. A very slow drinker, or maybe he just wanted to tidy up the car before he got home. There were not as many cigarette packages as in previous years and no one brand predominated. Straws are miserable to pick up and have to be done by hand.

We found a baseball cap, a T shirt and a Jacket but no shoes or socks this time. A lot of what look like they may have been baby wipes, a diaper, a dish cloth and two dish towels. We found two hub caps, one little fancy one from a Buick and one rather larger from a Ford product. I found an envelope with a cancelled check in it but it was too waterlogged to be readable and I found first a lovely wedding card from Florence and Walt and then a big fluff of blue and silver ribbon attached to a few shreds of silver and white paper. So if Florence and Walt never got a Thank You card for the wedding gift they gave Walt's ne'er do well nephew I guess you know why.

I can't imagine throwing my garbage out on the road and I don't think I know anybody who does this. We have the most beautiful countryside in the world, all the cool beautiful greens, the beautifully kept fields, the sparkling rivers and gorgeous views of hills and mountains, forests and flowers. What makes people want to mess this up? Would the people who throw garbage on the High Way also throw it on their driveway, on their neighbors lawns, in their own garage? Probably not, so why do they throw it in Parks and on public roads and sidewalks. Do they feel any guilt as their giant Slurpy cup bounces through the grass? Do they throw their beer cans out as a favour to people who make spending money from salvage?

I wish I knew Florence and Walt's last name. I'd tell them what happened to their lovely wedding card.

Thunder on the Prairies becomes a Reality

Connie Conley, Didsbury Ag Society

What started out as a sug-estion to host a Fireworks Display at this year's Fair and Rodeo is turning out to be Didsbury's own "Thunder in the Prairies" thanks, in part, to an editorial recently penned by Review Editor, Tamara Collins.

"We are really excited to be able to include fireworks in our event this year," says Ag Representative Connie Conley. "We are going to set them off Friday night (August  $20^{\rm th}$ ) at the Rodeo grounds. This is the first time ever that we'll be having fireworks at the Fair and Rodeo. It should be a smashing suc-

Conley says the idea to include fireworks in their lineup of attractions this year actually came about from an editorial written recently by Tamara Collins. "She had been to a 'Thunder in the Valley' event in southern Alberta and suggested Didsbury could one day host a prairie version of that here. The more we talked about including it with the Fair this year, the better it sounded. We have the capacity to hold hundreds of people at the grounds and in the stands, so there's definitely the opportunity to have a huge turnout.

As an added attraction that evening, Conley says there will be Glow Stik necklaces and (perhaps) "Thunder on the Prairies" t-shirts for sale before the show.

"I suppose when you look at it, fireworks are really the smallest portion time-wise out of the whole weekend...but it adds so much. We're really looking forward to this addition to our weekend."

Kid Around at this year's Fair and Rodeo

There'll be no excuse for the summer doldrums here!

Beginning Friday, August 20th and lasting until Sunday, August 22nd, every child and youth in Didsbury will find dozens of fun and exciting activities to keep them busy at this year's Fair and Rodeo.

Ag Society Representative, Connie Conley, says organizers have worked hard to incorporate as many family-oriented activi-ties as possible at this year's Beginning Friday, August 20th, there will be a Kids Train and Astro-Jump available on the grounds along with a variety of carnival-style games and activities from which to choose. "Later in the evening, we'll have our Family Dance down on the grounds, and of course our Fireworks Display.

The fun continues Saturday morning (August 21st) with the Annual Parade at 11:00 am. Af-ter enjoying the sights and sounds in town, families are encouraged to head down to the grounds to enjoy a high-tech ser Maze". "There's over 1000 square feet of maze to go through," Conley explains. "...It's huge, older kids can go in there and play laser tag and younger ones can just enjoy the maze aspect. It's really suitable for just about everyone." The Laser Maze, Conley says, was made possible through sponsorship from Didsbury Home Hard-ware, Kidsbury Daycare and

Of course the Rodeo offers it's own kid-friendly line-up of activities. Saturday attractions in-clude Mutton Busting (spon-sored by the Didsbury Fire De-partment), Mini-Chuckwagon Races and a Musical Ride put on by the Shriners.

Canine lovers in the family will want to stay for the show at 2:00 pm. That's when the 4-H Country Critters will be hosting a Dog Show complete with demonstrations by some real Calgary Superdogs. "This should be a lot of fun for the kids to watch," says Conley. "They are known for putting on a really good

Don't forget Sunday...Conley encourages families to return to the grounds to watch the Annual Tractor Pull competition along with first-class competitors at the 4-H Rodeo. "There's also a Farm-er's Market being held that afternoon on the grounds with dozens of exhibitors. There's really something for everyone."

Anyone wishing further infor-mation on any of the attractions at this year's Fair and Rodeo is encouraged to contact the Didsbury Agricultural Society Office at 335-4494.

"I Still Love Alberta Beef" theme of 2004 Parade

Find your curbside seats early on Saturday, August 21st and bring a camera. You'll want to remember the fun you had at this year's Elks and Royal Purple Community Parade as it rolls down Didsbury's mainstreet at 11:00 am sharp. The theme of this year's parade is "I Still Love Alberta Beef", a tribute to producers in and around the Didsbury area.

Dave Smith Senior has seen and helped plan numerous parades during his tenure as a Didsbury Elk, and says each year the number and quality of entries to this popular event keep getting better and better. "I believe we're up to about 80 entries now and approximately a 40 - 45 minute run time," says Smith, a Past District Deputy with the Elks.

In keeping with the overall theme for the Fair, this year's Parade Marshalls are Ernie Israelson and family, recent winners of the Calgary Stam-pede Farm Award. "We are actually sharing the honor of Parade Marshall this year," explains Smith, "We'll also be hosting Jim Fisher from Q-91 Radio in Drumheller. He also works closely with Alberta Beef Producers

The Elks and Royal Purple have been sponsoring the an-nual parade in town for about a decade - a tradition that would likely not be able to continue without the vital support of many of the volunteers. do this to give something back to the community in which we serve because they are the ones who support us so much throughout the year with all the fund-raising we do," explains Smith.

With entries coming from as far off as Calgary and area, Smith says it is not unrealis-tic to anticipate a pretty good drawing area for the Parade again his year. Already some groups have confirmed they will be participating this year (eg. Shriners, Innisfail Legion Pipe Band, Clan Maxwell Pipe Band, etc.

The nice thing about our Parade is that there is no reg-istration. We simply ask that anyone interested in being in the parade start lining up for the judging at 10:00 am near the Hi Ho Gas Station." From there entries will be shuffled and organized by Elks members according to their class. Categories for the Parade include: Commercial, Non-Commercial, Family Units, Antique Cars, Antique Trucks, Antique Tractors, Open Antiques, Heavy Harness Horses, Buggy Horses, Horse and Rider, Junior Horse and Rider, and a special "open" category which encompasses entries involving children.

Anyone unfamiliar with the Didsbury Parade Route can catch the excitement as the line-up leaves the Hi Ho Gas Station at approximately 11:00 am progressing down main street to the four-way stop, then turning east and ending down near the Aspen Ridge Lodge.

Dan Peters

When loved ones come home, always run to greet them.

Thanks to all the outstanding "Faces" that make Didsbury such a great community!

NOTES FROM NIGERIA

My trip to Poland

Dear family and friends,

to Poland:

spent the second day at Auschwitz. This former Nazi con-centration camp was originally established for Polish political prisoners. Before the war it had been the barracks of the Polish army. There were actually three camps at Auschwitz. The first camp was in the Polish army bar-racks. The second camp was built at the village of Brzezinka which became known as Birkenau. The residents of the village were made to move out and the camp was built using the rubble of their houses and later wood buildings were erected. The third camp, which no longer exists, was a work camp next to a nearby chemical factory.

Auschwitz I was not a huge camp like Birkenau. There were about 28 buildings but the number of prisoners reached a high of 20,000 people. With the Nazi enactment of the Solution to the Jew-ish Problem, the number of priss increased drastically. To deal with these prisoners, Birkenau was built along with the crematoriums. Birkenau is about 3 km from Auschwitz and the camp covered 425 acres. There were over 300 buildings and as many as 100,000 prisoners in the camp at a time

Near the end of the war, the Jews from Hungary were arriv-ing so fast that they were never even given a place to stay in the camps. They were separated at the train station inside the camp and those not selected to work were marched straight to the gas chambers. So many Jews were killed those last months that the crematoriums could not keep up, and bodies were thrown into pits and burned.

The tour of Auschwitz took everal hours and we were not able to see everything. Each of the buildings open to the public contain displays that give an idea of what took place at Auschwitz. One room just had an urn containing ashes from the crematorium. So many Jews came to Auschwitz and Birkenau and were killed without any record being made of their coming that it is impossible to know for sure how many died there. It has been estimated that 1.5 million prisoners died at Auschwitz and Birkenau.

When the Jews and other prisoners arrived at the camps they were told to leave their belongings to be picked up later. In the show-ers (gas chambers) they were told to remember which hook they hung their clothes on so they could find it later. After death, their hair was cut off and any gold fillings were removed. Everything was taken and sorted into six ware-houses. It was then bundled up and sent to Germany. When liberation by the Russian army was inevitable, the Germans tried to burn the warehouses and blowup the crematoriums to hide their crimes. What was left in the two warehouses that did not burn is on display in the buildings. One room contained thousands of shoes; another, a mountain of suitcases, and another, cooking pots. Seven tons of human hair was found as well. Many tons had already been sent to Germany to be made into haircloth.

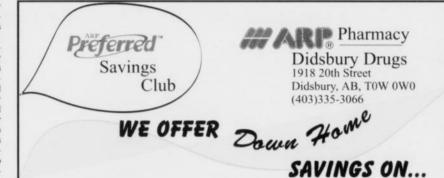

One thing that amazed me was the lies the Germans told the Jews. Most arrived at Auschwitz convinced that they were going to be resettled in the west. The Germans had them fill out job applications, sold them property and even continued to lie to them as they marched them to the gas chambers. Another thing that very emotional was the room that gave information about the children that went to the camps. 262,000 children were estimated to have arrived at Auschwitz / Birkenau. When the camp was liberated there were 600 children alive in the camps, many of these were twins. Hitler wanted to increase the Aryan race as quickly as possible so he had experiments done on twins to see if they could figure out how to increase the number of twins born.

The first prisoners at Auschwitz were photo-Auschwitz were photo-graphed and records were kept. Later prisoners had a number tattooed on their forearm. This was the only camp where numbers were tattooed on prisoners. At the end, there were so many people coming through the camps that no attempt was made to record who came and who

Animal Testing

by Dan McGeady

Farmers who brought downer animals in for testing could hamper efforts to reopen the border to live cattle said Assistant Chief Provincial Veterinarian, Gerald Hauer.

Alberta has committed to test 2,700 animals this year and 10,000 next year. So far it has tested only 900 animals. Canada has to test 8,000 animals this year and jumps to 30,000 in 2005.

'We are ahead of last year's testing (percentage wise) but we have to test more animals this year, and even more the following year," explained

"But we really have to pick up the pace if we want to reach our quota by December 1." He said that for whatever reason, farmers are disposing of dead animals without reporting symptoms or testing to discover the exact cause of their death.

"I can't really say why they aren't testing, you'd have to ask them, but I expect it has to do with BSE fear," he said. "BSE carries a huge dread factor. Surveillance is there to help the industry, but we can't help the farmers without them helping us.

Animals targeted for testing are taken from what Hauer calls 4-D cattle: diseased, dead, dying or downer. In otherwords, animals with an increased chance of being in-fected with BSE. And testing cattle over 30 months is incredibly important to reopen the Alberta Beef Producer's vicechairman Darcy Davis disa-grees somewhat with Hauer.

"It's not just the producer. Labelling him as the reason for lower than expected numbers is said the Acme rancher.

"There are a number of reasons, there have been bottle-necks in testing and even getting samples into a testing fa-cility has proven difficult."

He explained some of the reasons producers are not hav-ing animals tested, that sick animals have traditionally been the responsibility of the farmer and how the system for testing is just now catching up with the industry numbers.

"Producers in Alberta pay out of pocket for an animal to be picked up for testing, this is different than in other prov-inces where it is subsidized," said Davis

"There has to be a financial reward to producers, not a penalty."

He said that the main reason for the low testing numbers is the simple fact that getting animals and samples to labs has proven harder than origi-nally thought. Recommended by Davis is a program of compensation or a pick-up' service to properly handle any sick or dead animal.

He does approve with CFIA's policy to traceback' any further BSE infected animals as opposed to the culling an entire herd as was done last difficult or not testing has to continue.

"If we don't reach our targets we can't prove to other countries that our beef is safe, they won't accept our data, Hauer said.

"We want to maintain a minimal risk' (for BSE) level status. If we are moved to a moderate' risk level then open-ing the border will be a World Trade Organization decision, which will only prolong the border closure.

"We are encouraging people to look at the big picture; par-ticipating in surveillance helps the whole industry."

He acknowledged that procedures had changed since Canada's lone case of BSE was found on Marwyn Peaster's farm near Wanham, Alberta. He explained that the anonymity that should have pro-tected Peaster after his animal as discovered sick failed and this may be a reason why some are fearful of coming forward.

"We're changing the way things are done. If another case is discovered we will go about it differently," said Hauer. "Instead of a scorched earth policy where the entire herd is de stroyed we will go through the records. We don't want to destroy anyone's livelihoods.

This is a picture of a road crew working west of Didsbury. Farmers worked building roads to pay off their taxes which were set at a rate of 5 cents per acre. The pay for road work was such that a person alone could earn $2.00 and with a team could earn $4.00 per ten hour day. Thus a farmer could pay his taxes off in two days. Wouldn't it be nice if we could still do that.

QUESTION: Please describe the best approach to the discipline of a 1-year-old child.

DR. DOBSON: Many children will begin to gently test the authority of their parents as they approach their first birthday. The confrontations will be minor and infrequent at first, yet the beginnings of future struggles can be seen. My own daughter, for example, challenged her mother for the first time when she was 9 months

My wife was waxing the kitchen floor when Danae crawled to the edge of the linoleum. Shirley said, "No, Danae," gesturing to the child not to enter the kitchen. Danae," gesturing to the child not to enter the kitchen. Since our daughter began talking very early, she clearly understood the meaning of the word no. Nevertheless, she crawled straight onto the sticky wax. Shirley picked her up and set her down in the doorway, while saying, "no" even more strongly as she put her down. Seven times this process was repeated until Danae finally yielded and crawled away in tears.

As far as we can recall, that was the first direct confrontation of wills between my daughter and wife. Many more were to follow.

more were to follow. How does a parent discipline a 1-year-old? Very carefully and gently! A child at this age is easy to distract and divert. Rather than jerking a wristwatch from his hands, show him or her a brightly colored alternative - and then be prepared to catch the watch when it falls. When unavoidable confrontations do occur, as with Danae on the waxy floor, win them by firm persistence but not by punishment. Have the courage to lead the child without being harsh or mean or gruff.

Compared to the months that are to follow, the period around 1 year of age is usually a tranquil, smoothfunctioning time in a child's life.

QUESTION: My daughter is 5 years old and she has been having some very scary nightmares lately. She wakes up screaming in the middle of the night, but she can't tell us what frightened her. The next morning, she doesn't seem to recall the dream, but something is obviously troubling her. My wife and I are worried that she may be developing psychological problems that are being expressed in these terrible dreams. Is that possi-

DR. DOBSON: I think your daughter is all right. She is probably having a "night terror" rather than a night-mare. Let me describe the difference between the two. Nightmares occur primarily in what is known as "stage three" sleep, and are often remembered if the dreamer awakens. They are sometimes linked to emotional disawakens. They are sometimes linked to emotional distress during waking hours, and may play a role in "working through" those disturbing experiences. A person can often talk about a nightmare and recount its scary story. Night terrors, by contrast, usually occur in "stage four" sleep, which is even deeper and further from consciousness. In this physiological state, the body mechanisms are reduced to a minimum to sustain life. Breathnisms are reduced to a minimum to sustain life. Breathing, heart rate, metabolism and every other function go into super-slow motion. Some children experience strange dreams during this phase which cause them to sit up and scream in terror. However, when adults come to the rescue, they find that the child is unresponsive. The eyes are open, but the boy or girl is obviously not awake. And the next morning, there is no memory of what was so deeply disturbing.

This appears to be what you are describing with reference to your daughter. You'll be encouraged to know that there seems to be no connection between night ter-rors and psychological stress. It is not predictive of any known health problems or emotional disruption. Nor do we know what causes them.

The good news is that your little girl is apparently fine. The bad news is that you may have to deal for a time with her midnight terrors that drag you from your own stage four sleep.

Olds pro rodeo will be second to none with world-class stock

by Carla Victor

Some of the rankest stock in rodeo will be in Olds this weekend putting fear in the contestants and thrills in the grandstand.

Kelly Armstrong said peo-ple attending the Mountain View County Fair and Pro Rodeo in Olds this weekend better get ready for his bulls and Franklin Rodeo Stock bucking horses.

"They're wild, they're like pistal packin' gang-sters!" said Armstrong.

Spectators can expect to see veteran bucking horses like Steel Grey, Limited Edition and some new up and coming stock like a horse named 23 and one simply numbered A63, "so bad he don't even have a name yet!" said Armstrong.

The star bull for this ro-deo is expected to be Vigi-

"He's been everywhere." Armstrong said the cow-boy who can stay on Vigilante has a good chance of scoring in the 90s, but the odds are against them with a 90 per cent buck-off ratio.

"A really good bull rider can ride this bull, but if you stub your toe, or make one mistake he will buck you off. He may not seriously hurt anyone, but he is sure to hurt their feelings and bruise their pride.

Armstrong, a veteran bull rider himself who has been off the circuit due to injury, since last March, said all the animals from Franklin stock are treated like the athletes they are.

Bulls are exercised daily, fed a race-horse ration and cared for by vets and even chiropractors.

'Horses and bulls in the Franklin Rodeo Stock company get second to none care. These animals are worth so much we can't have one hurt or not feeling their best."

Spectators should watch for a bull jumping high in the air in the front end and kicking high out from be-

"A spinning bull is hard-est to ride, but gets the most attention from the judges."

Cowboys riding bulls don't have to spur like cowboys riding bucking brones. Bullriding is all about control, said Armstrong, rid-ers can spur for extra points but are usually busy just trying to stay on.

"Eight seconds is an eter-nity. (With experience) you get the time clock in your head, but you never want to be waiting on the whistle," he said. "You have to be fo-cused to ride, jump for jump, the minute you let up, thinkin' the whistle is com-ing soon, is when you get bucked off like a flash."

Comradery between bullriders is rarely seen in other sports.

"Bullriders close, you'll ride your bull and then go back and help your friend try to beat your score. There aren't many other sports you will see

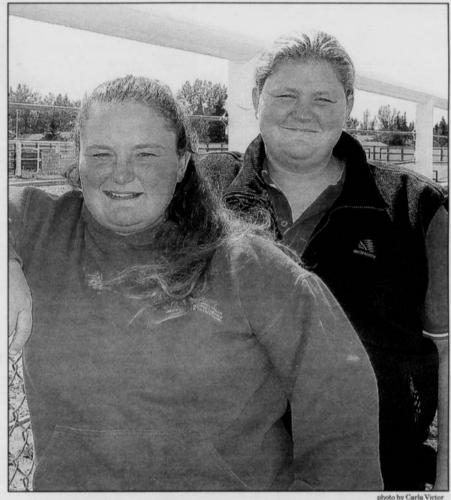

He said bull riding events draw the most attention in rodeo, because of the danger involved.

"A bull rider is defying all odds, they're doing some-thing that should never be done! It is like David and Goliath, or slaying a dragon. Riders feel like modern day gladiators.

"Every day they tow the line. There aren't many other jobs where you go to work and face a real chance you could die that day, doing what you love. In bull iding you do that every riding you do that every Rodeo events are scheduled for every day of the fair, Aug. 12-15. Gate admissions include rodeo performances.

The Stott name is synonymous with Pony Chucks. Tracey and Lori Stott from Olds, along with their Dad, brother and brother-in-law will be racing at the Mountain View County Fair, Aug. 12 to 15. Races run every evening and are included with gate admission.

Tearing up the home track

by Carla Victor

It is Tracey and Lori Stott's most memorable moment in racing, the sound of a thunderous hometown crowd cheering Tracey on to the finish line during her first Dash for Cash, at the Mountain View County Fair and Pro

Rodeo, August, 2000. One might think the win would have been what most impressed the Olds sisters, but that comes a close second, the first thing both recall from that race was the sound erupting from the grand-

"The crowd was nuts, they were amazing, I couldn't believe it," laughed Tracey who quickly credits her team and the crowd's participation for making that race a winner.

"I remember I could hear the cheering loud and clear down the backstretch and that never happened before," said Tracey, 28. Lori, 27, was watching her sis ter from the infield.

"It had to be my most memo-rable race too, hearing how crazy they were for her. The screaming starts as soon as she gets out on the field," said Lori.

Driving pony chuckwagons in the Alberta racing circuit is a family affair for any Stott. Together, five of the family members are on the track almost every weekend. Jack Stott, father to Tracey, Lori and their three other siblings, runs the family ranch near Lacombe. He builds all the wagons and boards all the wagons and boards all the horses driven by his daughters, their brother John, from Innisfail, and a brother-in-law Johnathon Bigcharles.

Training begins every April, more to get the driver in shape, and from May to September, almost every weekend is spent racing.

"It's fun to race against family," said Tracey. "Some say we must give each other a break, but no way. A race is a race!

"We are probably harder on each other than anyone else."

Tracey began driving at the age of 16, Lori when she turned 17

Both said there was never a question if they would start rac-

"We have been in it since we were born. There was never a question if we would, it was when we would," said Lori. "With a 16year-old age restriction for chuckwagon drivers, we all knew as soon as we got our driver's li-cence we would start racing too."

"Growing up at the races, Dad always had a wagon full of kids. He would always let us in the wagon for the winner's lap," smiles Tracey.

Today, all expenses and winnings are split between the Stotts five ways.

The one over the finish line first wins bragging rights.

This year bets have it that all the winnings will come from their Dad's rig.

HEINRICHS - Bernard Jacob Heinrichs passed away at his home in Carstairs, Alberta on July 29, 2004 after a courageous battle with can cer. Bernie was born on July 29, 1960 in Winkler. Manitoba as the third of six surviving children. He grew up in southern Manitoba on his fami-ly's farm, first near Altona and later near Sperling. As a child, Bernie thoroughly enjoyed church camps and boys' clubs. During his growing up years Bernie loved vehicles. including motorcycles, cars tractors. After he left school, Bernie found employment in the agricul-tural sector. In 1982 he moved to Crossfield, Alberta, where he gained expertise in the hog industry, even-tually managing a large hog operation. Later he became a trucker, driving highway rigs, logging trucks and cement mixers. Wherever Bernie was employed he was appreciated for his hard work, versatility and his way with people. In 1991, Bernie married Gisele and moved to Carstairs. He became involved with sports in the community, and was a well loved member of baseball and curling teams. Bernie could be gruff on the outside, but had a heart of gold. He was well known for his backvard bonfires and will be missed by the wide variety of friends over the years gathered around the fire or in the home to enjoy his company. Bernie was predeceased by one brother Walter in infancy and by his beloved mother Nora in 1994. Bernie is survived by his wife Gisele Prefontaine), and children Christine, Kayley, Tyler, Nathaniel and Nicolas. He is also survived by his father Ed (Anna), his brothers Albert (Phyllis), Menno (Janice), Dennis (Janice) and his sisters Verna (Bob) and Esther (Ernie), as well as merous nieces and neph

If friends so desire, memorial contributions can be made to the trust fund for the Bernie Heinrichs Memorial trophy. A memorial service was held on Thursday, August 5 at 3:00 p.m. at the Carstairs Church of Carstairs, AB. with a luncheon to follow. Arrangements are en-trusted to Mountain View Funeral Chapel, Didsbury

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to say thank-you to our children, their spouses and families for putting on such a lovely party; excellent job, well done! Also thanks to our friends, family, neighbours, and everyone who came out to celebrate our 40th anniversary with us. Thank-you for all the flowers, cards, gifts and well wishes, it is very much appreciated. We will treasure it forever. Thank-you so

The family of Jessie Schumaker would like to thank so many wonderful people for all the phone calls, your visits, hugs, prayers and all the beautiful cards. To those special people who brought all the baking and entire meals to the house. We are so blessed to have so many friends and relatives who helped out. To those who sent the beautiful flower arrangements; Mom loved flowers. To Pastor Dave MacMillian, for visits and prayers and the memorable service for Mom's funeral. To the Ladies of the Nazerene Church who prepared such a wonderful luncheon Thelma Resta you are a dear friend indeed your song was such an inspiration to us all, and the meal that evening was unbelievable. Thanks also to Personal Alternative from Red Deer. To the people who made dona-tions to the Nazerene Church in memory of Mom: Thank you. Our hearts ache and we know our tears will dry, and because of all of you, we are surrounded by many special people who truly care.
